What does Total Security Management mean to you?

Does it mean preparing for natural disasters? How about protecting your supply chain after one? Or implementing an emergency contact system? What about protecting your computer files? Or procedures when your employees travel? How about preserving your company's reputation in the face of a publicity crisis?

Total Security Management encompasses these and so much more. It's about physically protecting your facilities and employees, or your finances, IT and computer systems. It means addressing every step of your supply chain, and developing a procedure that protects it from both man-made and natural disasters. It means designing a plan that keeps you operating, no matter what.

As head of Global Trade Security of Ridge Global, Mr. Ritter provides strategic management support to clients focused on security and resilience initiatives in the critical area of global trade.

Founded by the Honorable Tom Ridge, the former Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, Ridge Global LLC, is a Washington-DC based provider of strategic security consulting services to governments and private corporations worldwide.

Please join us for a luncheon on January 28th in this unique opportunity to hear from one of the most innovative and pioneering individuals in the field of global trade security and management.

About Mr. Ritter

Mr. Ritter is the co-author of Securing Global Transportation Networks (McGraw Hill, 2006), which has received widespread critical acclaim from industry publications and was selected as the American Society for Industrial Security's (ASIS) "Book of the Month."

Mr. Ritter has pioneered the concept of Total Security Management (TSM), a business process improvement strategy designed to create value by managing security and resilience requirements as core business functions.

He is a U.S. Naval Academy graduate and holds an MBA from Old Dominion University. He is board certified by the American Society of Transportation and Logistics and serves as the vice chairman of the ASTS Transportation Security Council.
